Cold Spell Hits Middle West, Plains States

Snow Warnings Issued In Ohio; Soo Locks Closed

By The Associated Press
A Midwinter-sized cold spell knifed deeper into the Midwest and Plains today after easing its hold on the storm-battered northern Rockies.

Cold wave warnings were issued for Tennessee, Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio and lower Michigan.

The snowstorm, which buried sections of Montana in two feet of snow, diminished somewhat as it moved east and southward. But up to 15 inches covered upper Michigan and 7 inches blanketed western Illinois.

The mercury tumbled to 22 below zero at Valentine, in north central Nebraska, breaking a record of 8 below set in 1891. Lowers, in northwestern Iowa, had 24 below, and it was 19 below at Rapid City, S. D. Subzero readings were general from Montana into Minnesota and Iowa and throughout the northern half of the Plains.

As the storm swept into the Great Lakes region, snow cut visibility to such an extent that Army engineers were forced to close the big Soo Locks, connecting link between Lakes Superior and Huron at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. Ten iron ore-laden freighters tied up in the St. Mary's River.

The Arctic air dipped southward to the Rio Grande in western Texas and headed Southeastward into the Ohio Valley and lower Great Lakes region.

Freezing rain slicked highways in southwest Texas where temperatures dropped into the 30s. A narrow belt of freezing rain or drizzle spread across east central Missouri and central Illinois to northwest Indiana.

North of the sleet area, snow or snow flurries fell from eastern Iowa and northern Illinois into lower Michigan and northward to Lake Superior and to the Red River Valley of the north.

Scattered light showers sprinkled areas east of the Appalachians from northeast Georgia into New England.

The stormy weather and unseasonable cold have been blamed for at least 21 deaths, including 8 in Montana, 7 in Illinois, 5 in Iowa and 1 in Kansas. Driving conditions were reported extremely hazardous in many parts of the country hit by snow and freezing rain.

The cold air from the Rockies tumbled temperatures 15 to 35 degrees lower than Friday morning in the plains. The 29 below zero at Valentine, Neb., was a new record low for November.

Cancer Reports Are Due by Sunday

Approximately 600 cancer survey reports issued to county residents recently must be completed and turned in for processing by Sunday if the project is to be successful, Mrs. Gertrude Reese, county coordinator, told members of the county unit of the American Cancer Society at a recent meeting.

Members at the session in the Couthouse at Lisbon also heard Croner William Kolozsi, pathologist at City Hospital, cite the need for a system of registration for cancer victims in this county. He suggested the program might be patterned on those now used in Stark and Mahoning counties.

Nurse Jane Jolly, a consultant nursing consultant for cancer patients, told the group there is an urgent need for further development of nursing services for those afflicted by the dread disease. She also explained the need for close cooperation between existing agencies and the nursing service.

Evaluation of the programs of the various cancer society units and development of specific and practical plans for nursing programs in the future was urged by the woman. She also said the State is studying the scholarship program of the local group in comparison with other units.

The meeting, under the direction of Mrs. Edna Jones, was attended by Kolozsi, Louis Moushey, vice president, and Howard Schaefer, all of Salem.

Doing Something About the Weather

If scientists' predictions come true, 100 per cent accurate weather forecasting will be possible in a few years. One of the pioneers in the task of making this a reality is the Boeing 707 prototype, above, the original of the Jelliners now in passenger service. Its usefulness far from over, it has been turned into a jet-propelled weather laboratory by engineers from Boeing and Bendix Aviation. The airplane's clean lines are studded with weather sensing devices of all kinds, below. Carrying radar, cameras and its own electronic computer, the craft measures atmospheric data as a forerunner of flying weather stations of the future.

Conductivity probe registers voltages generated by storms.

Static electricity wicks get rid of plane's unwanted electrical charge.

Turbulence probe is sensitive to vertical air currents — "bumps."

Air scoops sample radioactivity and chemical make-up of air.

Fair-weather probe records electrical field of atmosphere.

Youth Involved In Several Incidents

Envoy's Playboy Son Is Immunity Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — As far back as diplomats can recall—and that's pretty far—they have enjoyed immunity on foreign soil.

The ancient Greeks even had words for it. They declared an attack on the person of an ambassador was an offense of the gravest nature.

Diplomatic immunity was spotlighted this week when it was invoked here by David Patrick Hearne, 21, son of Irish ambassador John J. Hearne. A widow was struck and killed Wednesday night by a car driven by young Hearne.

The law stepped aside, a coroner's inquest was called off, and the ambassador's son, a student at American University, went home to the embassy.

Police say young Hearne has figured in three disorderly incidents in the last 2½ years and was released in each case under immunity.

The State Department said Friday the Dublin government has offered to cooperate in working out some solution of the problems created by the envoy's son.

The object of immunity—from the troubled days of rival and unscrupulous kings—was to protect an ambassador or emissary from arrest or harm as he acted on behalf of his country abroad.

The immunity extends to members of an ambassador's family, entourage, household, employees and servants. Anyone who arrests them may himself be liable to prosecution, imprisonment and fine.

For the most part, immunity is automatic. And it is considered that a foreign minister cannot waive it himself. Only governments can waive it, a State Department spokesman said.

In some minor cases diplomatic immunity has been waived, but diplomats consider any breach in the privilege may be a dangerous precedent.

The vice president gave his views in a question-and-answer session at the banquet of the 50th anniversary convention of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity.

He said also that the farm income problem looms as possibly the major domestic issue for the 1960 campaign and the administration is studying recommendations to Congress to solve it.

Nixon said that expansion of foreign markets is not the answer if it means dumping of surpluses abroad. He said this hurts foreign relations.

The vice president again refused to commit himself as a presidential candidate next year, saying it's too early to discuss his plans. But he called running for a third term as vice president "complete, ly out of the question."

$586 Is Turned In To Chest Campaign
The Community Chest campaign inched toward the $61,295 goal today when an additional $586 was turned in to Chest headquarters from miscellaneous sources.

With only $266.34 still to be raised, Chairman Robert Oswald expressed hope that the drive would go over the top by Tuesday.

5 Persons Hurt In Road Mishaps

Motorist Kills Deer West of New Garden

Five persons were injured in two of three traffic accidents investigated by state highway patrolmen of the Lisbon barracks Friday.

Two men were brought to City Hospital following a mishap at 1:05 p.m. when cars driven by John W. Shearer, 28, of Rd 1, East Palestine and Allan G. Smith, 22, of Columbus collided at the intersection of Rts. 517 and 164, east of Lisbon.

In fairly good condition is a passenger in the latter's car, Thomas Smith, 27, of East Liverpool, who sustained a dislocated left hip. Allan Smith was treated for chest injuries and released.

Patrolmen said Shearer's auto was traveling north on Rt. 517 and struck the other car which was pulled out of Rt. 164.

Allan Smith was cited for failure to yield the right of way. Car Rolls Over Bank

Three 16-year-old East Liverpool girls were slightly hurt when their car went out of control on a curve, plunged over a slight embankment and struck a house on Rt. 267, a mile north of East Liverpool, at 8:30 p.m.

Injured were Sue Ann Smith, the driver, bruises of the left arm; Jane Swoger, bump on the head; and Mary Ellen Stark, lacerations of the right leg. The girls were taken to the Glenmoor Fire Department for first aid.

Damage was caused to the foundation, steps and plaster of the house owned by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Travis Jr. They estimated the damage as considerable.

James W. Barnes, 30, of Steubenville told patrolmen he struck and killed a deer which jumped in front of his car at 6:35 p.m. on Rt. 172, just west of New Garden.

The left front fender, headlight and hood of the car were damaged. The carcass was turned over to Barnes.

Party Set for Sunday

Civil War Veteran Marks 117th Birthday

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The last survivor of the battle between the Blue and the Gray, Confederate veteran Walter Williams, chalks up his 117th birthday today.

But Sunday will be the big day with most of the tough old soldier's 10 surviving children expected here to help him celebrate the anniversary.

There also will be grandchildren and great-grandchildren present for barbecued pork ribs and stirring band music. Williams, blind and partially deaf, has been bedridden for about two years.

His daughter, Mrs. Willie Mae Bowles, said the old veteran had made a four-point request for his birthday party: "Lots of people, lots of singing, lots of music, and lots of barbecued ribs — and he'll get all four," she said.

An American Legion band will play "Dixie" and "Cotton-Eyed Joe" — two of Williams' all-time favorites. An honor guard will come from ROTC units at Houston's Lamar High School.

Hard-Bitten Rebel to Head Castro's Army

Cuban Premier Rejects Charges; Ranch to Be Split

HAVANA (AP) — A hard-bitten revolutionist took over command of Cuba's army today as the island republic began a week of mourning for his missing predecessor, Maj. Camilo Cienfuegos.

Maj. Juan Almeida's appointment as army chief of staff followed a quick series of government moves Friday.

U. S. charges that "deliberate and concerted efforts" are being made to wreck American - Cuban relations were rejected by Cuba.

Formal notice was given that all but 1,650 acres of the 38,000-acre Becerra Ranch — controlled by the King Ranch of Texas — will be expropriated by the government. The ranch was given until Sunday to select the acreage it wants to keep.

Cienfuegos, one of the most popular figures in Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime, disappeared on a plane trip from Camaguey to Havana Oct. 28. Castro directed an unsuccessful search for his army commander and said in a TV speech early Friday that Cienfuegos presumably had crashed in the Atlantic.

Almeida, one of the original band who helped Castro launch his revolt against President Fulgencio Batista three years ago, formerly was air force chief.

Roger Touhy Gets Parole In Illinois

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — Roger Touhy, soon to be released from Stateville Prison after serving 25 years for a kidnapping he says he did not commit, is not bitter.

"I hold no grudge, and I'm not looking for revenge," the 61-year-old former Chicago gangster said Friday night. "I'm not bitter. I just want to get out of here."

Earlier Friday Touhy, known as "the Terrible" in the prohibition era when he was a gang leader with a working agreement with the old Al Capone gang, was granted a parole. Officials said he will leave Stateville as soon as his prospective home and employment have been checked, probably in a week or 10 days.

Touhy, crippled, slight and graying, smiled as he talked to reporters about his parole.

"All I want is to live in peace for the few years left for me," Touhy said. "I will be thankful for the rest of my life for the mercy already shown me by the governor and the (Parole and Pardon) Board."

He was convicted and sentenced to 99 years in 1934 for the kidnapping of John (Jake the Barber) Factor, a onetime confidence man and now a California real estate dealer. He was given an additional 199-year sentence in 1942 for escaping from Stateville with six other convicts. He was recaptured after 83 days.

ROCKEFELLER GREETED — New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller waves to well-wishers who were on hand to greet him as he and Mrs. Rockefeller, beside him, arrived in San Francisco by plane from Los Angeles. Rockefeller, of men mentioned as a possible candidate for the Republican nomination for president, is in San Francisco for one day on his current four-day tour of the west.

Political Guns Thundering

Three Presidential Hopefuls on Tours

By The Associated Press
Political guns are thundering surprisingly loud in advance of next year's presidential season.

Presidential hopefuls now beating the bushes are Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. None of these men actually admit they are running for presidential nominations next year.

A Democratic elder statesman, W. Averell Harriman, and a possible Democratic presidential dark horse, Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California, conferred at Sacramento, Calif., and took the occasion to throw a few bricks at the Republicans.

Nixon, speaking at Indianapolis, Friday, said the farm issue "will very possibly be the major issue on the domestic scene in 1960."

Nixon said it is "out of the question," that he would run again as a vice presidential candidate but that "I still feel it's too early" to announce 1960 plans.

The vice president patted Rockefeller, his main Republican rival, on the back for being a "very effective" campaigner. But Nixon added that the New York governor "does not have the experience at campaigning nationally that some others have had." He presumably meant himself.

Kennedy, at Milwaukee, borrowed a phrase from Sir Winston Churchill in saying a new administration is needed to overcome the gains made by the Soviet Union in the past seven years while "the locusts had eaten."

The Russians, said the Massachusetts senator, have beaten us into outer space, around the sun, to the moon, and surpassed us in rocket engines and new fuels.

"All this they have done," Kennedy said, "while we for seven years have cut our forces, reduced our budgets, held back our missile programs, wasted our money and time and scientific talent."

He likened the situation to that which confronted England 23 years ago. He quoted Churchill as saying then the British government had been blind to the menace of the Nazis in "the years the locusts had eaten."

Rockefeller, at San Francisco, said: "We must clearly see the conflict between American and Soviet objectives and principles as only one grave struggle upon the world scene in this age of revolution."

"We need . . . some sort of greater and larger political arrangement. Concretely, this means the growth of regional groupings of nations so that the

Meany Proposes Talks In Note To Eisenhower

New Methods of Settling Walkouts Would Top Agenda

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has taken a step toward calling a White House conference of management and union leaders. The agenda: New ways of settling strikes as crippling as the steel walkout.

A labor spokesman said Friday night that the President had asked President George Meany of the AFL-CIO to discuss the matter with Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell.

Meany had proposed the conference in a letter to the President. Excerpts from the letter and the reply were released by the spokesman, Al Zack, public relations director of the AFL-CIO.

"I am asking Secretary Mitchell to confer with you as to your specific ideas on time, place, and composition of the conference you suggest," Eisenhower wrote.

"He will also explore with representative management leaders their ideas on the subject."

Meany had written Eisenhower that "our country must avoid drifting by statute into rigid and arbitrary rules for collective bargaining. Such drifting can only lead to a serious weakening of the underpinnings of our whole democratic way of life."

The AFL-CIO president said he hoped a White House conference would induce labor and management to "talk out their problems and come to some solution — particularly of those problems typified by the attitude of both sides in the steel strike."

The prestige of the White House, Meany said, would put both sides at the conference "under public pressure to come to some kind of accommodation."

U.N. Seeks Compromise On Seating

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Delegates to the General Assembly are working behind the scenes seeking a face-saving compromise to break the East-West log jam over a disputed Security Council seat. But the Soviet Union is playing stubborn.

The Assembly has failed after an unprecedented fight through 37 ballots to decide between Communist Poland and U.S.-backed Turkey. The 62-nation body will resume balloting Tuesday after a two-week breather, but there appeared little hope of a breakthrough by either side.

Faced with the bleak prospect of having to stay in session until the election is decided, delegates are beginning to talk about a possible compromise.

The plans put forward range from a scheme to split the two-year council term between the two contestants to an involved deal that would give Turkey the seat in return for Western assurance the presidency of the 1960 General Assembly would go to a representative of Communist Czechoslovakia.

The United States, apparently feeling its prestige is slipping a little more each time the Assembly goes through another round of futile balloting, is reported anxious to reach some kind of agreement that would end the deadlock and save face for Washington.

Text of Ike's Thanksgiving Proclamation

WASHINGTON (APA)—Following is the text of President Eisenhower's Thanksgiving Day proclamation.

The time of harvest turns our thoughts once again to our national festival of Thanksgiving, and the bounties of nature remind us again of our dependence upon the generous hand of Providence.

In this sesquicentennial year of Abraham Lincoln's birth, it is fitting and proper that we should use his words contained in the historic proclamation of 1863, establishing this annual observance, to express anew our gratitude for America's "fruitful fields," for our national "strength and vigor," and for our "singular deliverances and blessings."

The present year has been one of progress and heightened promise for the way of life to which we, the people, and the government of the United States of America, are dedicated. We rejoice in the productivity of farm and factory, but even more so in the prospect of improvement of relations among men and among nations. We earnestly hope that concordance, understanding, and conciliation will hold increasing sway among us and among all peoples everywhere.

In the enjoyment of our good life, let us not forget the burden of which we reap the fruits of like and labor in this fair land. Let us stand fast by the principles of our republic enunciated in word and deed by the statesmen, teachers, and prophets to whom we owe our beginnings. Let us be thankful that we have been spared the consequences of human frailty and error in our exercise of power and freedom. As a token of our gratitude for God's gracious gift of abundance, let us share generously with those less fortunate than we at home and abroad.

Let us at this season of thanksgiving perform acts of thanksgiving; and, throughout the year, let us fulfill those obligations of citizenship and humanity which spring from grateful hearts.

Now, therefore, I, Dwight D. Eisenhower, President of the United States of America, in consonance with the joint resolution of the Congress approved December 26, 1941, 55 Stat. 862 (5 U.S.C. 87b), designating the fourth Thursday of November in each year as Thanksgiving Day, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 26, 1959, as a day of national thanksgiving. On that day let us gather in sanctuaries dedicated to worship and in homes devoted to family sharing and community service, to express our gratitude for the inestimable blessings of God; and let us earnestly pray that He continue to guide and sustain us in the great unfinished task of achieving peace among men and nations.

Confident Living

By Dr. NORMAN VINCENT PEALE
Struggle and You'll Find Happiness

Way back, when I was in Greenville High School in Ohio, I won the 100-yard dash. Of course I must state that one reason I won was because my chief competitor was laid up with the flu. I've never been much of an athlete, but I've always been interested in sports and enjoy reading stories about the men and have become famous. In my new book, "The amazing Results of Positive Thinking," I have told many stories of people who overcame odds and scored real victories.

I recently read a book by Bob Richards, the great pole-vaulter. In it, he tells of one of the most moving sports stories of them all. It begins with a boy named Charles Paddock, back in 1920, who went to a track coach one day and said: "I want to be an Olympic champion. I want to be the world's fastest sprinter."

"WELL, CHARLIE," the coach told him, "you can if you think you can. But more than that you will have to work, discipline yourself, live a clean life and put your faith in God. The secret of becoming a great sprinter is to develop your legs until they are like pistons. To get this kind of strength in your legs, you have to have it in your heart and in your mind. And when you get it, then you can pull up your knees until they hit your chest and drive like a locomotive on a railroad."

Charles Paddock did go on to become an Olympic champion and the world's fastest sprinter. I once watched him run and I never saw legs move faster in my life. It seemed sometimes that he almost flew through the air.

His fame brought him many speaking invitations. Once, before a group of young people he spoke about what you can do with yourself through struggling and hard work. Then he looked about him and said, "Somewhere in this room maybe there is another Olympic champion, but if not in sports, at least in life. It's more important to be a champ in living."

AFTER THE SPEECH, a shy little spindly Negro boy came up and announced: "Mr. Paddock, you've done something to me. I would like to be an Olympic champion."

Paddock put his hand on the lad's shoulder and told him: "Son, you can if you think you can. Then to that you must add real hard work. Give it all you've got and discipline yourself. And have a lot of faith in God."

And eventually the time came when that boy, whose name was Jesse Owens, won four Olympic championships. And he was asked to make many speeches. Remembering the inspiration he had received from Charles Paddock, he told one audience of youngsters: "Somewhere in this room I am sure there is another Olympic champion, if not in sports, at least in life."

And, afterwards, a skinny little Negro boy came up to him, shook hands and told him exactly what he himself had told Charles Paddock many years before. Owens looked at the boy and thought he had never in his life seen a skinnier youngster; indeed, it turned out that the boy's nickname was "Bones." But, nevertheless, Owens said, "You can if you think you can—if you are willing to struggle, work and believe." Harrison "Bones" Dillard went on to break Jesse Owens' Olympic record.

EACH OF THESE great athletes struggled to achieve their successes and the happiness that came to them. And, of course, all of us must struggle if we wish to achieve real happiness. Struggle isn't destructive—it's constructive—and it makes success and happiness all the sweeter.

So never give up struggling in your own life. If you attain your dream, go after another and greater one.

In the long run the happiest achievement in this life is making a man out of yourself; and the greatest joy of all is in the struggling to do something really worthwhile. Struggle and happiness are opposite sides of the same coin.

One School Lets You Learn Now, Pay Later

Easing Those College Costs

By JERRY BENNETT
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — A small Mid-western college has carried the learn-now, pay-later trend in financing higher education to its logical conclusion.
At Grinnell College in Grinnell, Iowa, students and their families can purchase a four-year course with a down payment when the youth enrolls as a freshman.
Installment systems of other colleges usually finance an education a year at a time and pay only part of the tuition and fees. The rest of the money must come from students' private funds or from scholarships.
Many banks and loan companies operate similar installment plans to help college students meet skyrocketing costs.

THE BIG DAY: And an even bigger bill.

AT CO-EDUCATIONAL Grinnell, all that's needed to buy a complete course in advance is for parents to sign a contract with the college, make a down-payment and pay monthly installments at six per cent interest. They have from five to seven years to complete the payments.
Grinnell's Vice-President for Administration, Merritt C. Ludwig, believes the system is as much of a boon to the college as to the students. He says:
"It enables us to convert money that might otherwise be going out of the Treasurer's Office as scholarships into accounts that are coming in."
Educators feel that without college installment plans many students would have to end their schooling after high school. The high cost of education is making it harder for parents to save enough money to pay for four years of college.
Twenty years ago it cost an average of about $1,000 a year to send a youngster to college. This included tuition, fees, books and additional expenses. Today, the cost has doubled. And authorities say it may double again by 1970.

But even more startling is the number of parents who expect their youngsters to attend college but have taken no steps to finance their education. A Ford Foundation survey of 5,000 families showed 60 per cent have no savings plans for their children's education. The remainder put aside only about $150 apiece last year.

College officials recommend that parents begin setting aside money in savings accounts, insurance policies and government bonds when their children are very young. However, some authorities say that the cost boom has made these methods obsolete.
FOR INSTANCE, to save enough money each year you have to know what college costs will be when your children are ready to enroll. Steadily rising expenses are making this difficult to predict.
That's why educators recommend investing savings in stocks that are likely to increase in value. They suggest that you get professional advice before taking this step.

But if you have waited too late to save enough, don't despair. There are several methods in addition to installment plans to help finance an education. They include:
1. Scholarships. Types of scholarships and qualifications for them can be obtained by writing to colleges. Most high schools also have books which list available scholarships.
2. Summer jobs and working part-time at school. It's getting harder to work your way through school, but the money you make from a part-time job still helps.
One of the best loan systems, educators say, is the one provided by the federal government under the National Defense Education Act. Students may borrow as much as $1,000 a year for five years and not pay anything back until one year after graduation.
Ten years are allowed to complete payments. Interest is three per cent a year beginning one year after the student leaves school.

Becomes Santa Claus to Poor

Baltimore Man Gives Away $3,000 of His Inheritance

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — It's six weeks till Christmas but a Santa Claus has already doled out thousands of dollars to the poor folks of this city.
He's not a jolly, plump man with a white beard, but a serious-looking man of 27. He wears slacks, a black suit coat and blue denim shirt.
He just asks two questions after he raps on a housewife's door:

Are you poor? Will you use any money I give you in the right way?
Some ladies simply slammed the door in his face when he first went about his portal-to-portal altruism on Thursday. But most quickly caught on when he pressed $25 or $50 into their palms and walked off. He handed out about $3,000 Thursday and an undisclosed amount Friday, authorities said.
Who is this mystery man, the people in crowded, rundown row-houses are asking.
He's Arthur Douglas Foster III of suburban Glyndon. He is single and according to a friend, who asked not to be identified, Foster inherited about $85,000 from a grandmother.
His parents, divorced and remarried, both are well-to-do. They have tried to persuade the boy to give up his share-the-wealth plan, Foster told a reporter Friday night.
At a late hour Foster hadn't shown up at his YMCA hotel room in downtown Baltimore, but he phoned from a restaurant telephone.
"All this publicity may force me to change my tactics," he said.
After getting many calls about the man, police picked him up Friday and questioned him. Foster was indignant at first, but the officers explained it just isn't common for a man to go around giving away money.
At any rate, they couldn't hold him for giving away his own money, so off he went again by taxi, presumably to hand out more bills.
Asked to explain his generosity, Foster answered with a question: "Look at it this way: If you were poor, would you rather go to the Welfare Department, where you have to tell them everything about yourself, or would you rather just know that there is someone who can help you without all of that?"
When asked if he had a religious motive, he replied: "Yes, I suppose you would say I have." Other than that, he wasn't saying much.

Strike Ends At 6 Boston Newspapers

BOSTON (AP) — Six Boston newspapers, closed for eight days by a printers' strike were back in operation today.
The strike ended Friday night when the International Typographical Union members voted 644-543 to accept the publishers' offer to arbitrate unresolved issues on wages and fringe benefits.
The vote reserved the action of Nov. 5 when a vote of 561-511 opposing arbitration precipitated the strike.
Only two of the morning papers, the Globe and the Herald were published this morning. The Daily Record, morning tabloid, will resume publication with its Sunday night editions.
The three afternoon papers, the American, Evening Globe, and the Traveler canceled today's editions but will resume Monday.
The publishers said the three Sunday papers — the Sunday Advertiser, the Herald and the Globe — will be published.
About 1,200 printers, along with about 5,000 other newspaper employees, were idle during the eight days.
The printers, who have been getting a base pay of $119.40 weekly plus $4.75 in pension and welfare benefits, sought improved pay terms in a new contract, but their demands were not disclosed.
The publishers' offer was for a 9-cents-an-hour raise retroactive to last Jan. 1, plus a 15-cent additional payment per shift to the pension and welfare fund. In addition they offered 7 2-3 cents an hour additional, effective next Jan. 1 with 5 cents more to the welfare fund.
The publishers also proposed arbitration of the printers' demand for three days off with pay in the event of a death in their immediate families.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ...
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Convention Time Comes Closer

The exchange between Democratic National Chairman Butler and Ohio Gov. DiSalle over state party contributions to the national organization's coffers serves as a reminder of just how close the next presidential election is. The power plays are getting bolder.

A political chairman's job is essentially one of power manipulation. Most chairmen prefer to keep this function as secretive as possible, covered up by a blanket of diplomatic niceties.

But Mr. Butler does not belong to that school. He is famous for his open-and-above-board tactics, such as his criticism of congressional Democrats for being too compromising toward the Republican administration and his advice to states rightist Dixiecrats to pack up their rebellious threats and go home if they didn't like the way things were going.

In the same category was his recent warning to state party organizations to stop dragging their feet on their fund "quotas" or face the prospect of subnormal accommodations at the national convention in July.

But Gov. DiSalle, a member of the open-and-above-board school too, is not one to buckle under that kind of pressure. He was quick to tell Mr. Butler—for all to hear—that the organization which helped elect Mr. DiSalle last year did so without much help from the national organization. The governor said, in effect, that if Mr. Butler wanted to play that kind of game, Ohio Democrats would be happy to oblige, even if it meant building their own accommodations for the conventions.

That remark may have been made in jest, but the point the governor was making was that the national chairman is not the only fellow who has powerful clubs at his disposal. Mike DiSalle appears to have a good grip on the state party's reins, driving one of the most smoothly operating Democratic organizations Ohioans have seen for a long time.

He, therefore, is the man most likely to succeed in the battle for control of the giant Ohio delegation to the convention. And, holding a four-year term, he does not have to stand for election next year.

So Mr. DiSalle is in a pretty good position to tell Mr. Butler: "Handle us with care. In 1960, you'll need us more than we'll need you."

This sort of jockeying from positions of greater or lesser strength will be going on—some of it publicly and some of it privately—in both parties from now until the conventions are over.

Then the political divisions will be narrowed to two again.

We're Sending a Good Sample

With the latest additions, President Eisenhower will visit Italy, Turkey, Pakistan, India, Afghanistan, Iran, Greece, France, Spain, Tunisia and Morocco during his three-week tour next month.

Before he leaves, a few others may have been added to the list. There is a demand for his presence abroad. Governments and their people are interested in him.

The idea of the trip is to give them an image of the United States, in the person of the President. That was the accomplishment of Premier Khrushchev when he visited the United States in September. While he was here, Americans added an image of the Soviet Union that was different and intriguing. Khrushchev was not a dour Stalin, nor an argumentative Molotov, nor a glum Gromyko. He was a dynamic and apparently tireless man of rotund proportions who laughed, chuckled, lit straight from the shoulder in his speeches, made shrewd observations, told jokes, lost his temper and obviously was having a good time.

Contrast that image of the Soviet Union to the one many of us grew up with—the bearded Bolshevik with a smoking bomb in his hand and murder in his eyes.

THE IMAGE of America in some of the places the President will visit is no more flattering than the image of revolutionary Russia was in its time. It is "The Ugly American." It is the "overpaid, oversexed and over here" service man. It is also the missionary, the government official and the U.S. tourist. The composite, if the observations of many foreigners can be taken for the truth, is not flattering. America is not respected. It is envied but it is not loved.

President Eisenhower is a good sample in appearance and manner of what most Americans admire. It will be hard for foreigners who dislike America to dislike him. Here at home, even his critics do not dislike him; they dislike only what he believes in that they don't believe in, such as his basic belief that he is President of all the people, not

Once Over

In making his European and Asian trip Ike seems determined to prove that his doctors are right. Any man his age, with burdens of the White House upon him, who would hop into Seven-League Boots for a tour of that dimension must feel in the pink.

On the other hand he may realize that it will enable him to escape some of the early Christmas shopping and Mamie's cry of "You've got to help me find last year's Christmas card list and address envelopes."

IF THE TRIP takes longer than expected he may even get out of the annual pretest of the old Christmas tree lights. But he is taking on an exhausting job after two illnesses and inviting the question "Is this trip necessary?"

If it is a success and he gets great receptions in India, Pakistan, Turkey, Morocco, Greece, Afghanistan, Iran, Italy and in other places it will take some of the air out of the Khrushchev World Tourist "balloon" and put him ahead of Nikita (or at least in a photo finish) as a hop-skip-and-jump champion, traveling snowman and goodwill spreader.

Khrush is more of a trouper, scene chaser and specialist in "hamming it up."

Ike is under the possible handicap of being calm, dignified, patient and in need of no sign, reading, "Danger, explosive." He is not the type to jump on quizzers or threaten to go home when people cry, "Answer the question."

He can be depended on not to attack Nehru and India if he isn't taken to a Delhi amusement park.

HE IS NOT FAST with amusing "gags" and is short on proverbs. But he has sincerity, global prestige and easily projects four-square rugged honesty.

It is a question, however, whether the world in its present hysteria can really be stirred by a leader who has NONE of the characteristics of a demagogue, smart vaudevillian or circus acrobat.

Ike's road show could be called, "Have merely the people who want to use him for selfish purposes.

By the time Mr. Eisenhower has finished his trip there won't be much that won't have been noted by the crowds that will see him and he people who will have heard him.

It is good to know that the President's attractive daughter-in-law will accompany Maj. John Eisenhower, who always goes with his father on special trips. She and her husband are good examples of what most Americans admire, too.

HOW to build good will is one of the perennial puzzles of a generation that sets a high value on opinion. There are many experts on the negative side of the art—people who know what not to do as well as people who instinctively do what shouldn't be done.

Positive experts are few. Even they are not sure how good will is built, except that it flows from a feeling of confidence and friendship which some people inspire without seeming to try.

President Eisenhower is one of the "naturals." He doesn't seem to be trying, yet few public figures of his generation have inspired more confidence and friendship in others.

Lest We Forget

The passing of another Veterans Day, like Memorial Day, brings memories of friends we knew who paid the supreme sacrifice and of others who were wounded and of others, still among us, who aged prematurely through bitter battles in Europe and in the Pacific.

These holidays, dedicated to our men and women who have served their country in time of need, also remind us that no attempt has ever been made to restore the Salem War Memorial Honor Roll.

It's been five years since the public memorial board was demolished during a storm, yet no attempt has ever been made to restore it. Have we grown so cold that we care not?

A veterans organization could perform a creditable service by sponsoring a project for a permanent monument.

By H. I. Phillips

Democracy: Will travel." It can be helpful to let the world know that the only Gulliver of modern times is not Nikita. And when next year's summit conference comes around Ike's trip will have a double feature—Two Jules Vernes—instead of just a Russian model playing "Around the World in 80 Days."

Ike's golfing should be helpful. He is skilled in "approaches," knows how to play water hazards and is not intimidated by "rough" on both sides of the fairway.

"I FELT THE SAME relationship to contestants as a doctor to a patient and a lawyer to a client," says Albert Freedman in Mexico still defending quiz show attitudes.

Ya mean a doctor is not supposed to admit it if he got a patient to help fake an operation or rig an examination? Or that it is okay for a lawyer to tell a client, "Look, this is all entertainment and we're gonna hoodwink all the courts?"

Freedman goes on to say, "The public was paying no admission to these quiz shows." So it's okay to cheat if the customer is on the free list.

Justifying the rigging of quiz shows he adds, "The only function of show business is to entertain. Everyone knows a magician doesn't saw the woman in half."

Yeah, but has anybody ever been led to assume the magician wasn't doing a trick and was really carving up the gal for a jackpot?

Ventriloquist's Suitcase Routine

DeGaulle Is Determined Man

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — French President Charles de Gaulle, iron-willed at 68, acts like a man determined, if he has to, to take over the leadership of the West. He has already asserted a lot of it.

This week the Frenchman, so proud he dislikes using reading glasses in public, dictated to his Western partners and the Soviet Union the time and conditions for a summit conference.

At an extraordinary news conference De Gaulle, who heads a second-rate power but persists in thinking of it in terms of grandeur, put on an amazing show of memory, calmness and strength.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's attitude toward a summit meeting has been: The sooner the better. President Eisenhower and Premier Nikita Khrushchev have seemed to favor such a meeting sooner rather than later.

But De Gaulle, after taking over a sagging France and giving it more stability than it has had since World War II, decided by himself that haste was unwise. He even put a stiff "if" on any summit conference at all.

Before there's a summit, he said, he must meet with Khrushchev in March; there must be an improvement in the international climate and the Western partners must be agreed on how to deal with Khrushchev.

And, just to be sure, he told Eisenhower and Macmillan his pre-summit get-together with them in December should be followed by another after he talks with Khrushchev in March.

This is only part of his statements at the news conference. They ranged from pensions for French veterans of World War I to a prediction the Chinese Communists would ultimately be their Soviet friends' greatest peril.

In the end De Gaulle may have proved extremely wise in insisting upon complete preparations for the summit. Otherwise, he warned, the summit may turn into disaster.

B. J. Cutler, the New York Herald Tribune's Paris reporter who attended the news conference said that because De Gaulle does not want to use reading glasses in public, he memorized his 14-minute opening statement to the 700 correspondents invited to hear him and ask questions. He also memorized 45 minutes of statistically packed answers to questions he had anticipated. It was a fantastic memory feat, as you will have noticed if you read the text.

What De Gaulle said, and the way he said it, had a sweep, a nobility, and an absolute kind of articulateness which this writer has not seen in the text of a news conference by the head of any government in years.

The use of the word extraordinary to describe the news conference was justified by the word picture of it given by Crosby Noyes, writing from Paris for the Washington Evening Star.

It was held in the great hall of Elysee Palace with its fantastic gingerbread ceiling, crystal chandeliers, and gilded tapestries, he said. The 700 invited newsmen settled themselves on gilt Louis XV chairs with pink seats.

Most of the diplomatic and literary world was there as were members of the President's household and the Cabinet.

Exactly on time the gold brocade curtains parted, De Gaulle strode in, with no staff and carrying no papers. He gestured the audience to sit down.

Noyes contrasted De Gaulle's idea of a news conference with that of some Western political leaders.

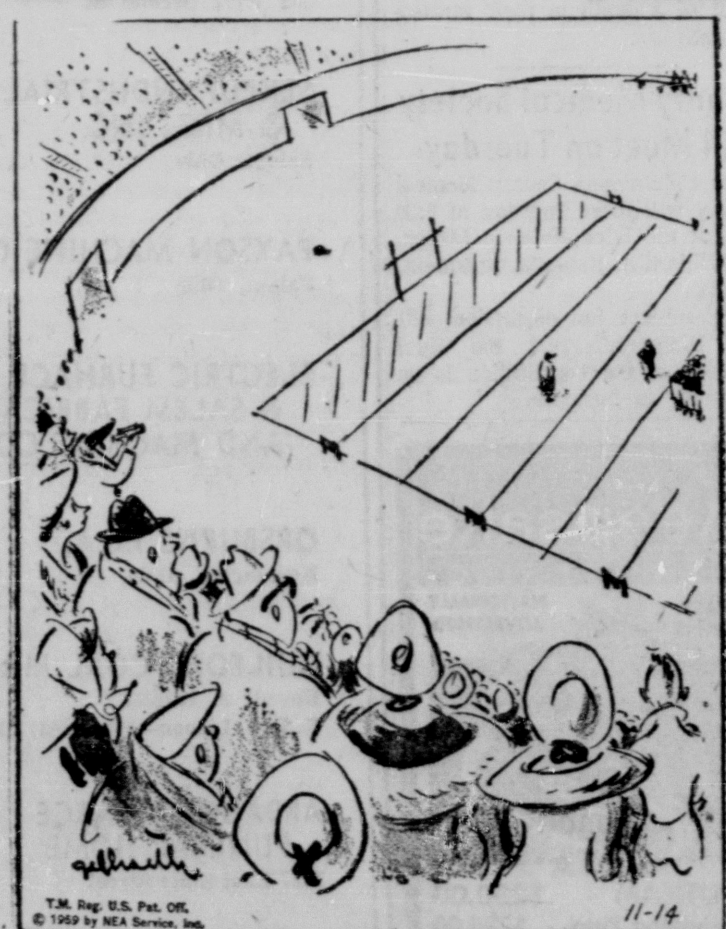

"There's no question who is in control," he said. "For De Gaulle it is simply an opportunity to say exactly what he wants to say with the enormous precision of a man who has memorized the answers down to the last detail."

Reds and Elections

By RAY CROMLEY

Communists Encourage Independent Groups

U.S. Communist leaders have mapped out tactics for the 1960 elections.

The information in today's column comes entirely from Communist documents.

Top priority: encouraging the growth of nonpartisan independent political groups in every possible city and county.

The 1960 aim is that these would not be Communist, strongly leftist or fellow-traveler organizations. Red leaders have found such extremist groups have little influence.

THE INDEPENDENT associations the Reds favor would, preferably, not even be organized directly by Communists. For that would serve to keep out the wide base of people wanted.

They'd be nonpartisan political organizations, the Communists have decided, preferably started "by Labor, by liberals, by Negroes, small farmers, small businessmen." When things go going, local Communists would be ordered to do what they could to help—even if the groups were unfriendly to Reds.

The Communist leaders say a big, popular Communist or Socialist party can't be expected overnight. The first objective, then, is to weaken the Republican and Democratic parties—whittle gradually away. When they're weakened enough—years from now—THEN will be the time for the next step.

Independent political organizations—even temporary independent political activities for a special objective—they reason, help lessen the influence of the Republicans and Democrats.

The new U.S. Communist party program to be adopted next month, (mid-December) will say bluntly: "It is necessary to stimulate awareness of the need for the working classes to develop its political action organizations—

COPE, LLPE, PAC. . ."

IN 1960, local Communist units will be ordered to help weed out extremely conservative candidates for office. Richard Nixon and Nelson Rockefeller are specifically mentioned.

The hope isn't to elect Communists in 1960 but just to get rid of a few of the "worst" conservatives, to nudge things slightly forward.

This may mean even helping a "slight" conservative instead of an "extreme" conservative.

Rank and file Reds will be ordered to join forces with middle-of-the-roads, even with conservatives, if necessary, to achieve those ends.

U.S. Communists will be told not to shy away from Republican or Democratic meetings. Communist units will be directed to bring whatever "pressures" they can exert "on county, state and national conventions of both national parties."

Local Red units will be instructed to see that, "wherever possible" every conservative and middle-of-the-roads candidate has some sort of a more liberal opponent running in every Republican or Democratic primary.

U.S. RED LEADERS are now informing party workers they have decided on this step, to be put into effect when the time is ripe sometime in the future.

Encourage organization of a "Third Party"—a coalition of "Labor, small farmers, small businessmen, Negroes."

Communist workers in 1960 will be instructed to support, where they can, joint efforts by those groups. That's intended to pave the way for eventual political union.

The Communists, of course, have no plans for telling Republicans, Democrats, Labor, small businessmen, small farmers or Negroes what they're up to.

Education for Educators

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Many educators who have been clamoring for massive federal aid programs for state and local educational systems have become expert at playing politics.

As members of a pressure group some have excelled in the techniques of distortion and propaganda. They have had a considerable influence.

All the while, an unhappy fundamental of government has eluded them. And now it has inexorably risen to face them.

It is the fact that when the federal government dispenses funds, its controls go along in the bargain. A bureaucrat with every bundle of aid.

A FRANK ADVOCATE of federal "support" of education, Dr. Edgar Fuller, executive secretary of the Chief State School Officers, was shocked by the recent request of the U.S. Office of Education for Federal educational representatives in the regional offices of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

He told his group as much, blaming "the Budget Bureau and HEW lawyers who think they have a God-given right to follow every last dollar down to the local level and see how it's spent."

For the last 12 months the federal control accompanying the "Massive infusion" of federal money in local schools under the National Defense Education Act have been too evident and widespread to be generally ignored.

A number of school boards have turned down NDEA funds for guidance, counseling and testing or assistance in the teaching of science, math and modern foreign languages.

These include boards in Dallas and Pasadena, Texas and Cincinnati, Ohio—all preferring to solve their own educational problems.

Some members felt the proffered federal funds were bait which would catch the states on the hook of federal control.

A number of colleges have rejected NDEA loans, either because their own student loan programs were adequate or because of NDEA requirements. Many others, however, feel they are not in a position to turn down aid, whatever strings may be attached.

In his remarks, Dr. Fuller clings to his hope for another kind of federal aid: "Experience seems to show that special aids undermine state and local control of education but we find no evidence that general aids do so. This no doubt the major reason why 40 out of 48 Chief State School Officers as of a few months ago opposed the NDEA as a permanent program."

It appears, too, that the National Education Association and other long-time federal aiders are now out for a long-term federal "support" rather than "crash programs" for specific educational purposes.

THEIR EDUCATION in bureaucracy is not complete if they feel that personnel of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare will remain idle under long-term schemes involving vast appropriations. A semantic gimmick is not a solution.

Means of preventing federal control of education include reform of our tax structure so that states and localities can raise funds to run their schools without the "aid," "support," or "control" of Washington.

President Eisenhower took the lead in this movement in intergovernmental relations when he proposed repeal of part of the federal telephone tax and federal aid to vocational education in order to permit the states to collect telephone tax revenues to finance their own vocational education and certain other programs. Nothing as yet has come of the proposal.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce is making greater efforts for revision of the federal tax structure so that the states can finance their educational needs and individuals can deduct a reasonable percentage of their higher education costs.

Many responsible citizens in the field of education have not been naive about federal aid and an increasing number are recognizing the danger to our educational traditions inherent in such assistance.

Sentiment for such tax revisions as may be necessary to enable states and communities to meet the financial requirements of their educational systems should grow and become more vocal in the months ahead.

Matter of Fact

The oxides of a group of little-known metals are called "rare earths," a name given them in the early days of chemistry because they resembled the substances then called "earths." Probably because of their rarity, not many uses have been found for them. Cerium is the only one of the large number of "rare earth" metals that has any commercial importance.

Class Dividing Line Also at Issue

High Schools Will Vote on Extension of Grid Season

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's high schools will vote early next year on proposals which would extend the football season and change the dividing line between Class A and Class AA schools.

The Ohio High School Athletic Assn.'s board of control Friday night approved submission of two referendums to the state's principals. One would permit the start of football practice the third Friday in August and permit the first game for preview on the first Friday after Labor Day.

Under this plan the teams could play eight games by the last Friday in October and could easily extend their schedules to 10 contests.

The other referendum would change the dividing line on school classification. Currently, schools with 151 boys are classed as AA, and that figure would be raised to 181. Three-year schools with 116 boys are now Class A, and the new dividing line would be effective next fall if passed by the principals.

South High School of Willoughby was admitted to the athletic association, boosting the membership to 995. Of these, 433 are in Class AA, and 552 in Class A.

Police Close Art Theater At Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—Police in suburban Cleveland Heights halted the showing of the French movie "The Lovers" Friday night and arrested the theater manager on a charge of exhibiting an obscene film.

The theater was closed and the film was confiscated for evidence against Nico Jacobellis, the manager of The Heights Art Theater. Four hundred patrons who paid $1.50 each were escorted out and received refunds.

The film, shown with English subtitles, opened Thursday. The raid was staged by Police Capt. Earl J. Gordon on orders of Chief Edward F. Gaffney. Gordon said he considered the film "definitely in violation of state obscenity laws."

The arrest action was taken under a criminal statute and Jacobellis could be bound to the grand jury on a felony charge.

The law under which the charge was brought provides a maximum penalty of a $5,000 fine or seven years imprisonment, or both.

Jacobellis was taken to jail. He was detained there only briefly before being released under $100 personal bond. He is to appear in Municipal Court Monday.

Jacobellis, 37, said that he had not decided whether to take legal steps toward showing the picture again. He said the theater would reopen tonight but that he did not know what picture would be shown. Taking issue with the "obscenity" label, he said:

"I agree with the recognized top critics not only of this country but of Europe that the film is not at all obscene. It has been highly acclaimed in Europe and this country and was a second prize winner at the 1958 International Film Festival in Venice."

KENYON IS LOW HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—S. T. Kenyon Co., Inc., of Portsmouth, Ohio, was apparent low bidder at $374,378 on a building, grounds and utility project at the Greenup, Ky., Ohio River locks and dam, the U. S. Corps of Engineers said Thursday. Government estimate was $328,821.

Social Security Tax Rate Increase Effective Jan. 1

Starting Jan. 1, the social security tax rate will be increased from 2½ per cent of wages, paid by employees and employers to 3 per cent by employees and a like amount by employers.

The present rate of 3¼ per cent of net earnings paid by the self-employed will be increased to 4½ per cent of net earnings.

Since its inception in 1935 the social security program has grown phenomenally, both in coverage, beneficiary categories, and the amount of benefit payments. Starting as a retirement program for the protection of the aged wage earner, it has now become a family insurance program protecting not only the wage earner, but the self-employed as well, in old age, in total disability, and the family in case of the worker's death.

In 1937 the social security tax rate was 1 per cent by employees and 1 per cent by employers. This low tax rate was adequate under the restricted retirement provisions on the original Act and sufficient to maintain a self-supporting program.

The self-supporting principle in social security program financing has been sustained through the years by periodically increasing social security tax rates to take care of higher benefit payments, extended coverage, and other program improvements.

The new increased social security contribution rates maintain the self-supporting feature of the program and by its actuarial soundness assures future payments to all eligible beneficiaries.

Injury-Riddled Girard Squad Ripped By Quakers 58-0

Phillis, Janovec Get Two TD's Apiece

By DICK BRAUTIGAM

The 14 seniors who bowed out of the Salem High grid scene Friday night at Reilly Stadium were members of a unit which posted the most impressive defensive record of any Quaker football squad in 49 years.

Salem's Quakers closed their 1959 season by racking up their seventh shutout and eighth victory in nine games by completely outclassing an injury-riddled Girard team 58-0.

Salem's rock-ribbed defense yielded a total of only 22 points for the season. Not since 1910 has a Quaker team yielded fewer points. That year's club gave up 13 markers but played only five games.

Friday night was seniors' night on the Salem team but much to the chagrin of the Girard Indians, everyone joined in the celebration.

Coach Earle Bruce's crew was out for a defensive record and state recognition Friday, and Girard was the hapless victim. The coach got 36 players into the contest, but he substituted cautiously on defense.

THE OFFENSIVE substitutions came more frequently, but even the second and third stringers had too much zip for the tiring Indians. Eight Salem players broke into the scoring column.

Halfback Fred Phillis and substitute fullback Ron Janovec led the scoring with 14 points apiece. Fullback Pete Schmauch had eight, ends Don Davidson and Charlie Horn and halfback Frank Copacia each had a touchdown, and quarter back Vince Horning and halfback John Delfavero each had a two-point conversion.

The 58 points scored by the game total since 1930 when Salem shut out Leetonia 95-0.

The Quakers rolled up 292 points this season for an average of better than 32 points per game. Salem's 1957 powerhouse which compiled a 9-1 record scored 312 points in 10 games.

While the sturdy Salem defense was holding Girard to a total net gain of only 103 yards, the offensive unit was rolling up an almost unbelievable 502 yards.

Salem's sensational right halfback, Fred Phillis, had by far his best night of the season. The talented senior churned up 228 yards in 16 rushing attempts for a 14.3 yard average per carry.

ONE CARRY ACCOUNTED for 84 of those yards in the first period when the co-captain broke loose for Salem's first score. Phillis' outstanding performance against Girard pulled him around Pete Schmauch for team ground gaining honors for the year.

Phillis' 14 points brought his team-leading total to an even 100. He missed the charmed 1,000 yards rushing mark by just 23 yards.

Quarterback Vince Horning completed only three of 10 passes but two of them went for touchdowns. One was a 53-yard screen job to speedy end Charlie Horn and the other was hauled in by Old Reliable Don Davidson from the 14-yard line.

Horning also turned in one of his best jobs on defense. He covered a lot of territory from his cornerman slot. The lanky senior made two pass interceptions, one on each side of the field.

Fullback Pete Schmauch was overshadowed in the ball carrying department by his running mate, Phillis, but the 195-pounder threw some timely blocks Friday which he wasn't cutting loose earlier in the season.

With halfback Frank Copacia clipping in with a touchdown, it was quite a night for the all-senior backfield.

SALEM'S LINE has been a bright spot all season, and with the possible exception of the daughter of East Liverpool, this unit has seldom looked better in its blocking.

On defense, end Tony Petrucci was on some Girard player's back all night. He led the team with eight tackles. Tackle Joe Julian and linebackers Ned Chappell and Ronnie Janovec were also outstanding up front.

In the middle of the line Charlie Metcalf, Fred Harshman and Bob Lambert were giving ground to nobody.

Girard did have one lineman who gave the Quakers all they could handle. He was Ron Scarfo, a 190-pound junior guard who backed up the line on defense. When a Quaker ball carrier was tackled, Scarfo was usually on the bottom of the pile.

Girard's ground game was stopped cold. Lou Antonucci, a proved breakaway threat, was held to just 28 yards in 13 carries. The entire backfield netted only 75 yards.

Because of numerous injuries, the Girard squad had only 23 men dressed for the game here. Ten players including seven starters, were out of the lineup because of various ailments. The defeat was their seventh in eight games.

PLEASING TO SALEM fans was the finesse with which the Quaker reserves were able to move the football. They entered the game in force at the beginning of the fourth quarter and rolled up two touchdowns.

The confident subs also had another touchdown called back because of a penalty and were stopped on another drive by a pass interception in the end zone.

Four men on this unit who looked particularly tough on offense were quarterback Gary Devan, halfback John Delfavero, fullback Ron Janovec and end Duane McClaskey. All four are juniors.

Devan is dangerous both as a passer and a runner. He doesn't have the polish of Horning but he runs better and likes to roll out. Little Delfavero has speed to burn. Devan likes to throw to him, too. The halfback made three fine catches Friday for 13, 14 and 21 yards.

Devan's favorite target is McClaskey who has a knack of shaking himself loose from defenders. McClaskey hauled in one pass for 15 yards against the Indians.

SALEM SHOOK its habit of starting slowly and rocked Girard for 22 points in the first quarter. The Quakers scored the first time they got their hands on the ball. Girard took the opening kickoff and moved for three first downs before they were stopped. They punted out of bounds on the Salem 13. On the third play from scrimmage Phillis broke through his own left side and outraced the Girard defenders 84 yards to the goal.

Phillis plunged for the conversion but was short.

Horning's first pass interception set up the second touchdown. Copaciaded four yards through a hole opened by Charlie Metcalf and Joe Julian for the clincher. Phillis followed Horning and Schmauch around left end to pick up the two extra points.

Salem's third touchdown came with only 29 seconds remaining in the first quarter. Horn took a short screen pass from Horning near mid-field, and this time his downfield blockers stayed out of the way and let the speedster outrun the Girard defensive men to the goal.

Horning carried over the extra points to make the score 22-0.

SALEM SCORED just once in the second quarter. A 14-yard aerial from Horning to Davidson climaxed a 50 yard drive. Copacia was short on his run for the extra points. The Quakers led at half-time 28-0.

Salem took the second half kickoff and in five plays moved 66 yards for a touchdown. Schmauch scored standing up after a six-yard burst up the middle. The fullback also added the conversion on a run.

Horning's second interception gave Salem the ball on Girard's 10. Phillis went over three plays later from the four. Phillis was again short on an attempted conversion.

The two fourth period touchdowns were both scored by Janovec one covering two yards and the other three. Both were set up by the passing of Devan and the running of Janovec and Delfavero. Girard's deepest penetration came in the second period when they moved to the Salem 21 yard line before giving up the ball on downs. The Quakers held on a fourth and three situation.

Officials last night were Mike Rodak of Weirton, W. Va., Nick Frascella of Akron, William Holzwarth of Louisville and Phil Dienoff of Akron.

Lisbon Swamped 30-0 By Invading Jackson

A strong Jackson (Massillon) team steam-rolled over the host Lisbon Blue Devils 30-0 Friday night.

The invaders scored in every quarter to hand the Blue Devils their third loss against six wins this season. Lisbon is 5-2 in Tri-County League play.

Quarterback Tom Eckert tallied the first TD when he plunged over from the two-yard line. Fullback Jim Leonard scored the extra points on a run.

The invaders hit paydirt again in the second period when end Jack Weimer scored after snaring a 20-yard pass from Eckert. Halfback George Welty added two points on a run.

In the third period halfback Jack Hite tallied on a one-yard plunge, and Leonard again netted the extra points running.

Jackson added its final six points when Welty crossed the goal line from the five.

The BLUE Devils will conclude their season next Friday when they are host to Wellsville.

Brown Cites Squad's Pass, Run Balance

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Browns had just finished their final practice session for Sunday's game in Washington against the Redskins. Coach Paul Brown relaxed and talked to news-

"You always strive to have a good balance of passing and running," he said when told the Browns have made 1,159 yards rushing and 1,172 yards passing. "You don't always get it, of course."

"Remember when they used to call me 'Pass and Trap Brown' back in the All-America Conference and the early days of the National Football League?"

"We had Otto Graham and naturally accounted for more of our yardage through passing. There were some complaints at that time."

"Then along came Jim Brown and the pendulum swung the other way. Some people thought we were running the ball too much."

"You do the best with what you have. It's nice to have that balance."

Garcia May Hurl For White Sox

CLEVELAND (AP)—Mike Garcia, who compiled a brilliant pitching record in 11 seasons with Cleveland, may be hurling for the Chicago White Sox and against the Indians next season.

The burly right-hander, who will be 36 next week, said Friday night he has received a very good offer from Chicago owner Bill Veeck and will complete negotiations next week. The Indians recently released Garcia, who won 142 and lost 56 lifetime but had a 3-6 mark last season.

The Flamingo, annual 3-year-old thoroughbred classic at Hialeah, has been run on an off track only once. That happened in the inaugural race in 1926 at Tampa, Fla.

Bums Seek Long-Ball Hitter

Podres to Yanks for Howard? Dodgers Will Not Stand Still

By CHARLIE PARK

NEA Special Correspondent

LOS ANGELES — (NEA)—How can you improve on a world championship?

It ain't easy, yet the Los Angeles Dodgers do not intend to stand pat. They hope to do some wheeling and dealing to strengthen the club for the defense of its crown in 1960.

They are looking for a long-ball hitter, preferably an outfielder, and for bull pen reinforcements.

In order to obtain a slugger of the caliber they covet, they are willing to part with a headliner from their talent-lush pitching staff—say someone like Johnny Podres.

They intend to aim at the American League market, which revives the report that Podres will be offered to the New York Yankees for Elston Howard, who only would fill the outfield requirements but also bolster the catching corps.

There are several veterans regarded expendable who no doubt will serve elsewhere next season—Clem Labine, Johnny Klippstein, Don Zimmer and Rip Repulski.

CHANCE OF any farmhands crashing the big club are remote. Bill Harris is about the only pitcher who could muscle in as a reliever. Bobby Lillis, labeled a "mapor league shortstop" by his Spokane manager, Bobby Bragan, might hang on to spell Maury Wills.

What about Frank Howard, the strong boy from Ohio State who can sock the ball out of sight? He has been ticketed to take over first base when Gil Hodges' day is done and the present thinking is for Howard to spend the next year at Spokane learning how to play the position.

Big Frank is playing first base for the Escogido club in the Dominican Winter League, which is managed by Pete Reiser, pilot of the Dodgers' Victoria farm in the Texas League. Frank has yet to learn the strike zone.

A possible sleeper is Carl Warwick, the right-hand hitting, left-hand throwing outfielder from Victoria whom Reiser maintains is one of the finest center fielders he has ever seen.

This 22-year-old hits with authority. He batted .331 at Victoria with 35 homers and 94 runs batted in, stole 27 bases.

THE PITCHING staff is loaded with hard-throwing youngsters who will continue to improve.

The average age of the starting crew is just 24. At 28, Roger Craig is the dean. Podres is 27, Danny McDevitt a year younger. World Series hero Larry Sherry is but 24. Don Drysdale, Sandy Koufax and Stan Williams are mere youths of 23.

Johnny Roseboro improved tremendously behind the plate, while his hitting, which had been considered his strongest point, fell off from .271 the previous season to .232.

Second-stringer Joe Pignatano didn't supply much sock, either. The club could use a right-hand hitting catcher capable of juicing up the attack.

The infield of Hodges, Charley Neal, Wills and Jim Gilliam is as nifty as they come. Hodges, although 35, should have a couple of productive seasons left.

THERE IS some question about the outfield. Duke Snider wound up the top hitter at .308 and the runs-batted-in leader with 87, but knee trouble persists.

Don Demeter, the big bopper in the early stages of the season, tailed off sharply. Medical men tell me they doubt if Carl Furillo will be able to do much besides pinch-hit and play a couple of innings now and then again next season because of that torn leg muscle. The solid man in the outfield is Wally Moon.

Ron Fairly, currently serving a six-month Army hitch, has the tools and savvy.

Chuck Essegian's two pinch homers in the World Series assured him of a job as a reserve.

Palestine Wins Loop Title

Bulldogs Blast Clippers 26-0

Championship Fourth In Row for Winners

East Palestine's powerful Bulldogs wrapped up their fourth straight Tri-County League title back Columbia 26-0 at East Palestine. A scoreless tie played by Minerva and Louisville last night assured the Bulldogs of the title. The Clippers looked good as they held the Tri-County champs scoreless during the first period. But early in the second frame, East Palestine put on a determined drive to push across its first tally.

Halfback Jim Wisser hit off tackle from the two yard line for the six-pointer. The Bulldogs' try for the extra point was no good.

LATER IN THE SAME period, the Bulldogs' Senior quarterback Willis Woods intercepted a Clipper pass on Columbia's 26-yard line and carried it back to the one before being dropped. The Bulldogs' High-scoring George Morris then rammed off-tackle for East Palestine's second TD and his 92nd point of the season.

The Clippers kept the Bulldogs from crossing their goal line in the third period. As the fourth stanza began, the Bulldogs again staged a drive and quarterback Willis Woods sneaked across from the one-yard line.

THE BULLDOGS' FINAL score was made by Coach Howard Weyers' second string gridders.

The first team began the final scoring drive on a 35-yard pass from Woods to Leibert.

Then the second squad took over and drove the final 35-yards to the TD, with quarterback Jerry Bush running around his own right end from two yards out for the marker.

Third string quarterback Jack Istnick passed to end Jim Massey for the final two points of the contest.

The hapless Clippers were outplayed the entire game. The Bulldogs gained a total of 230 yards rushing and 59 passing while Columbia totaled 63 yards on the ground and 11 in the air.

EAST PALESTINE attempted seven passes and completed two, while the Clippers tried eight, completed three and had one intercepted.

The Bulldogs also had the edge in first downs, 13 to 6.

The Bulldogs ended their season last night, giving Coach Weyers an 8-1 record in his first year at the East Palestine helm.

Ten seniors played their final contest for the Bulldogs. They are: Delmar Knight, Dick Leibert, Bill Thompson, Chuck Robinson, Frank Manno, Sam Marshall, Bill Hull, Willis Woods, George Morris, and John Taucher.

George Fisher's Columbiana gridders will end their season next Friday night against Stark County's leading scorer Gene Connors and the powerful Louisville Leopards at Louisville.

The Clippers have a 3-6 season record while the Leopards stand at 6-2-1.

Sherman observed that Bradley will be missed next season.

Leetonia Tramples Springfield 36-12

The Leetonia Bears ended their season on a winning note Friday night when they downed an invading Springfield Local team 36-12.

Halfback Dave Macy scored three touchdowns during the contest to run his TD total for the year to 15. A senior, Macy rolled up 92 points altogether.

Bands, Fireworks To Highlight Start Of Winter Games

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Massed bands and a chorus of thousands, spectacular fireworks and the release of 2,000 pigeons, symbolizing doves of peace, are some of the pageantry planned for the Olympic Winter Games at Squaw Valley Feb. 18-28.

For the enjoyment of the 400,000 fans expected to visit the scenic games site high in the Sierra, film producer Walt Disney is planning to turn the 11-day games into a fitting spectacle.

As head of the pageantry committee, Disney has had his designers and artists working on the Olympic show for nearly a year. It promises to be one of the most elaborate spectacles in games history.

The ceremonies will utilize more than 5,000 performers, including 52 California and Nevada high school bands and a massed choir of 2,645 voices.

One of the most impressive sights will be the tower of nations, rising 500 feet above the ceremonial area and just across from the 3½ million dollar Olympic ice arena. Atop the 79-foot tower will be the five linked rings emblematic of the games.

Behind the tower will be a 16-foot snow wall and 43 poles flying the flags of the competing nations. Similar flagpoles will mark the Avenue of Nations leading to Olympic Village.

The most important symbol of the games, the Olympic flame, will rest on a 12-foot tripod in front of the tower. The traditional flame will be flown from Greece to Los Angeles and thence brought by high school athletes to Squaw Valley.

Beaver Creek Club To Hold Shoot Sunday

The Beaver Creek Sportsman Club of Washingtonville will hold a ham, turkey and trap shoot Sunday afternoon at 1 on the club range.

Chairman of the shoot Freddie Tunnat said the public is invited. The regular November meeting of the club was held Thursday night with 80 members attended.

Following the business session two movies, "Save the Case" and "Glacier National Park," were screened.

The lunch committee served a fish fry.

Orange Picked To Top Colgate

Miami, Fla. Tops S. Carolina 26-6

By The Associated Press
With only three major college football teams remaining on the unbeaten-untied list, the wheel of fortune stopped in the niche marked "Syracuse" today.

The Orangemen—No. 1 team in the nation—drew powerless neighbor Colgate as their opponent. The Red Raiders, once a power to be reckoned with—and many times conqueror of Syracuse—have hit lean days, and Ben Schwartzwalder's operatives figured to have no trouble winning No. 8, UCLA beat North Carolina State 21-12, Miami (Fla.) smashed South Carolina 26-6, and Kirksville (Mo.) drubbed Bradley 38-8 in Friday night's games.

The other two members of the Big Three — Texas and Southern California — could be in trouble.

The Longhorns, ranked No. 2 in the Associated Press poll, have been showing signs of weariness, and Texas Christian, their opponent, is no pushover.

If Texas can pull it out, the Longhorns are virtually in. If they lose, and Arkansas should lick Southern Methodist in another Southwest Conference game, the Razorbacks go into first place in the league and the favorite's spot to act as host in the Cotton Bowl come New Year's Day. That's how precarious Texas' position is.

Southern Cal, ineligible for a bowl game, had a date with dangerous Baylor, an in-and-out club, which barely lost to Texas a week ago. The Trojans are in the NCAA's doghouse, so their interest in the year's work is strictly academic — to keep their record clean.

Other conferences also are down to the put-up-or-shut-up stage. Here's how they shape up:

Big 10—Northwestern and Wisconsin tied for the lead, play, respectively, Michigan State and Illinois. Both the leaders are favored, but if one falters it's curtains.

Southeastern — Georgia, the leader, faces a toughie in Auburn. But if the Bulldogs are in an unenviable spot, imagine how Mississippi must feel. Ole Miss, still in the running, goes against Tennessee, the club that ended both Auburn's and Louisiana State's streaks. LSU plays Mississippi State.

Atlantic Coast — Clemson, unbeaten, tangles with Maryland. Wake Forest, still in the race, could be knocked out of it against Duke. Clemson and Wake Forest meet next week.

Ivy—Penn, in first place, is the heavy favorite over Columbia. But this won't settle anything. Cornell, Princeton, Yale, and Dartmouth all are still in it.

Big Eight—Oklahoma, weak but still conceded the title, plays Army in an intersectional game. But that doesn't interest the others. The Sooners can't return to the Orange Bowl, so the runner-up makes the trip. At the moment three teams are tied for second—Kansas, Colorado, and Iowa State. Kansas plays Oklahoma State, and Nebraska clashes with Colorado. Iowa State is involved in a nonleague game against San Jose State.

KSU Cage Season Tickets on Sale

KNT — Sale of season basketball tickets for Kent State University's 13 home games is now underway.

Chet Williams, graduate manager of athletics, announced that the 13-game book of tickets will sell for $15.

The tickets are on sale at Williams' office in Memorial Gym. Alumni may purchase season's tickets for $12.50.

Kent State's home schedule begins Dec. 1 when the Golden Flashes meet Youngstown University. The next three games are also at home with Kent meeting Arizona State of Tempe on Dec. 4, Pepperdine College of California on Dec. 7 and California State Poly on Dec. 12.

Rival Akron University invades Memorial Gym on Jan. 2, while Toledo opens Kent's Mid-American Conference season with a visit on Jan. 6.

BIGGER GAME
EAST LANSING, Mich. — (NEA) Michigan State abandoned football in 1944 because World War II took 134 of the Spartans' 135 varsity and freshman players.

Syracuse's most decisive victory over Holy Cross came by 49-9 in 1955. This year Syracuse won by 42-6. This series began in 1905.

PITCHER BERRA — With the New York Yankees' poorest season far behind him, Ca'cher Yogi Berra shoots his lowest golf score, 78, at the Pinehurst, N.C., Country Club.

KICKER — Pat Summerall, New York Giants, holds up kicking tee in dressing room Nov. 8 after booting 3 field goals — and defeating Chicago Cards 9-3 Sunday. Game was played in New York.

Goshen Blasts E. Canton 40-6

Wilson Throws Three Touchdown Passes

Goshen Union won its third game of the season last night as the Gophers handed the East Canton Hornets their sixth straight loss 40-6 at East Canton.

The Gophers now have a season record of three wins and five losses, while the Hornets' record stands at 2-7. It was the final game of the season for both clubs.

Three passes and a long run spelled victory for the Gophers. Quarterback Chuck Wilson hit on only three of 10 passes, but all were good for touchdowns.

Wilson hit end Gary Birkhimer with a 55-yard pass in the first quarter and end Lynn Barnett with passes of 65 and 60 yards in the second quarter to give the Gophers a 24-0 half-time lead.

The Gophers came back with single tallies in each of the third and fourth periods on a 70-yard scamper by Frank McDaniel and a four-yard plunge by Joe Meisner.

East Canton's lone TD came on the last play of the game when quarterback Vic Mair hit end Dick Householder with a 40-yard scoring pass.

The Gophers picked up 12 first downs, gained 374 total yards and completed three of 10 aerials.

The hapless Hornets racked up eight first downs, 107 yards and completed 7 of 10 passes. The scores by quarter follow:

Goshen Union 8 16 8 8 40
East Canton 0 0 0 0 6

Mahoning Bans 14 Magazines

Four Books Also Taken from Stands

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Four books and 14 magazines were banned today from Mahoning County newsstands in the first reported case filed under Ohio's new law against obscene literature.

County Prosecutor Thomas A. Bell secured temporary injunctions banning the publications, which include D. H. Lawrence's "Lady Chatterley's Lover" and Playboy Magazine.

Bell called the publications obscene, lewd, lascivious, indecent and "a public and common nuisance" in asking Common Pleas Judge Erskine Maiden Jr. for the injunctions. No date was set for a hearing on permanent injunctions.

Named defendants in Bell's petitions were individual publishers and Bernard Bloch, head of the Mahoning Valley Distributing Agency.

Bloch about a decade ago successfully fought attempts by former Youngstown Police Chief Edward J. Allen to ban certain publications from newsstands.

If the injunctions are upheld, Bloch is expected to appeal to higher courts.

Cuyahoga County Prosecutor John T. Corrigan has called the new law "absolutely worthless" and said he will not use it but will continue to operate under old statutes. Among objections voiced by Corrigan were that the new law uses the phraseology, "indecent in character," which he said is a new concept with no legal precedent. He said also there are holes in enforcing the law which would permit vendors to sell objectionable literature while the case is pending in court, perhaps for a year or more.

Banned publications included the books: "Sex Life of A Cop," "Hot Cargo and Vice Girl" and these magazines: "Modern Man," "Nude Magazine," "Escapade," "Sun Annual Sunshine and Health," "Gent, Dude, Nugget" and "Caper."

Bell said he had 55 more publications in his office that he was considering.

3 Teen-Agers Are Nabbed After Prank

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP)—Shoppers watched helplessly as a young gunman in a car fired point-blank at a teenager on a shopping center sidewalk. The youth fell, his face and head crimson.

Two women fainted and others screamed Friday as the gunman and another youth threw the fallen teenager into the car and sped away.

But Sheriff's Deputy Charles Lea, one of the astonished witnesses, ran to his cruiser and cut off the fleeing car before it left the parking lot.

He was just in time to see one frightened teenager wiping ketchup from his face. The three in the car, all age 16, hadn't expected a deputy to be in the audience and were afraid he would take a real shot at them.

All three were taken to Juvenile Court where officer Lloyd Lohrer gave them a stern lecture against repeating the prank.

But Lohrer said he had trouble keeping a straight face because he remembered helping pull the same stunt on a Halloween night many years ago. He recalled what a hard time his friends had carrying his 250 pounds away before they were discovered.
